CALIFORNIA PREPARES HER CHOICEST FEAST

One month from today California's Diamond Jubilee State Fair will be under way. For the past year the State Agricultural Society has been planning the notable event. Celebrating the 75th anniversary of the first California State Fair the exposition this year will be more spectacular, more magnificent than ever before. And it will be more than a State Fair—it will be an exposition representative of the entire west, with California's neighboring states and the Republic of Mexico occupying one of the immense pavilions with striking displays of their products and resources. All California will benefit from this record-breaking anniversary exhibition, and all Californians rally behind it enthusiastically.

NATIONAL SUPPLIES

SOME WISE—SOME OTHERWISE

Manager John A. Glass came in the other morning all sunburned and quite fatigued. He reported that on Sunday he took the longest swim of his life. Well, that's saying a lot, considering the time that John has been in the swim.

F. J. Young, chief draftsman, is back on his old job again after a two weeks' trip through many points north. Forest says the best part of his trip was the good roads as well as the good eats while reposing in and around Yosemite. We failed to determine how many miles his new Hudson had been towed, but it looks about the same.

Art Driver reports having discovered some new roads down around San Diego. This may not be really a discovery, for as most of us know, soon after leaving Tijuana all the roads look quite different for a number of miles.

Harry Steinwell and what some people call his moustache, are back on the job again after his two weeks, which must have included Hollywood. Now that you are back again among us plain folks, Harry, you might just as well shave.

We are glad to announce that Thomas Bowker, Jr., has returned from the East, and has reported the Schmelzig-Woodchopper fight in detail. The next issue will bring you Sir Thomas Bowker, Sr. Just who is going to be the next heavy weight champion.

Tom Whistler, the official base umpire for the mercantile league, was figuring on leaving this small town stuff, so we had a Judge Landis scout for umpires down to see Tom officiate. Well, anyway, we are not worried anymore about Tom leaving.

Harry Minard, the Ajax Wizard, having won the Chevrolet the girls club raffled off, has not been around much lately. It is understood he "liquidated" the car right away.

George Reichardt, our "General" estimator, lately returned from his vacation.

SPECIAL: C. C. (Cocky Collector) Cochran, the official collector for the Torrance Mercantile League, reports that donations are falling off, and if the boys don't stop busting the balls and cracking the bats, the fans will have to dig deeper or he shall be compelled to stop ringing his little bell.
